Library's own open databases

BPP AGH (PL, EN)

The database includes descriptions of publications by employees of the AGH University of Science and Technology in Kraków since 1999. Descriptions of publications before 1999 appear in the database only if they were not registered in the printed version of the Bibliography. Updated regularly and most popular.

BAZTECH (PL, EN)

Database that has been registering articles from STEM-oriented Polish journals. Started in 1998 as a bibliographic database and nowadays it is developing towards a full-text citation database. Since 2005 references have been added to bibliographic descriptions and based on agreements with publishers full texts are also included.

Portal Historia AGH (PL)

Portal presents the most important facts and dates in the history of the University (faculties, departments, non-faculty units) and the profiles of prominent persons connected with AGH (e.g. rectors, vice-rectors, deans, honorary doctors). The portal is created by the staff of the Scientific Information Division of the AGH Main Library.

The Library and the University

- Youtube/facebook series - The Library Ambassadors:

https://youtube.com/playlist?list=PLAOoPGK6dCIQgOKy_jEHubg7KVw41eTuR

To commemorate our centenary we started a series of short videos in which people connected to the University and the Library are talking about what the Library means to them.

- Open AGH

<https://epodreczniki.open.agh.edu.pl/>

An app made by The Centre of e-Learning at AGH University of Science and Technology containing some of the most used handbooks in e-book form.

- Cultural events

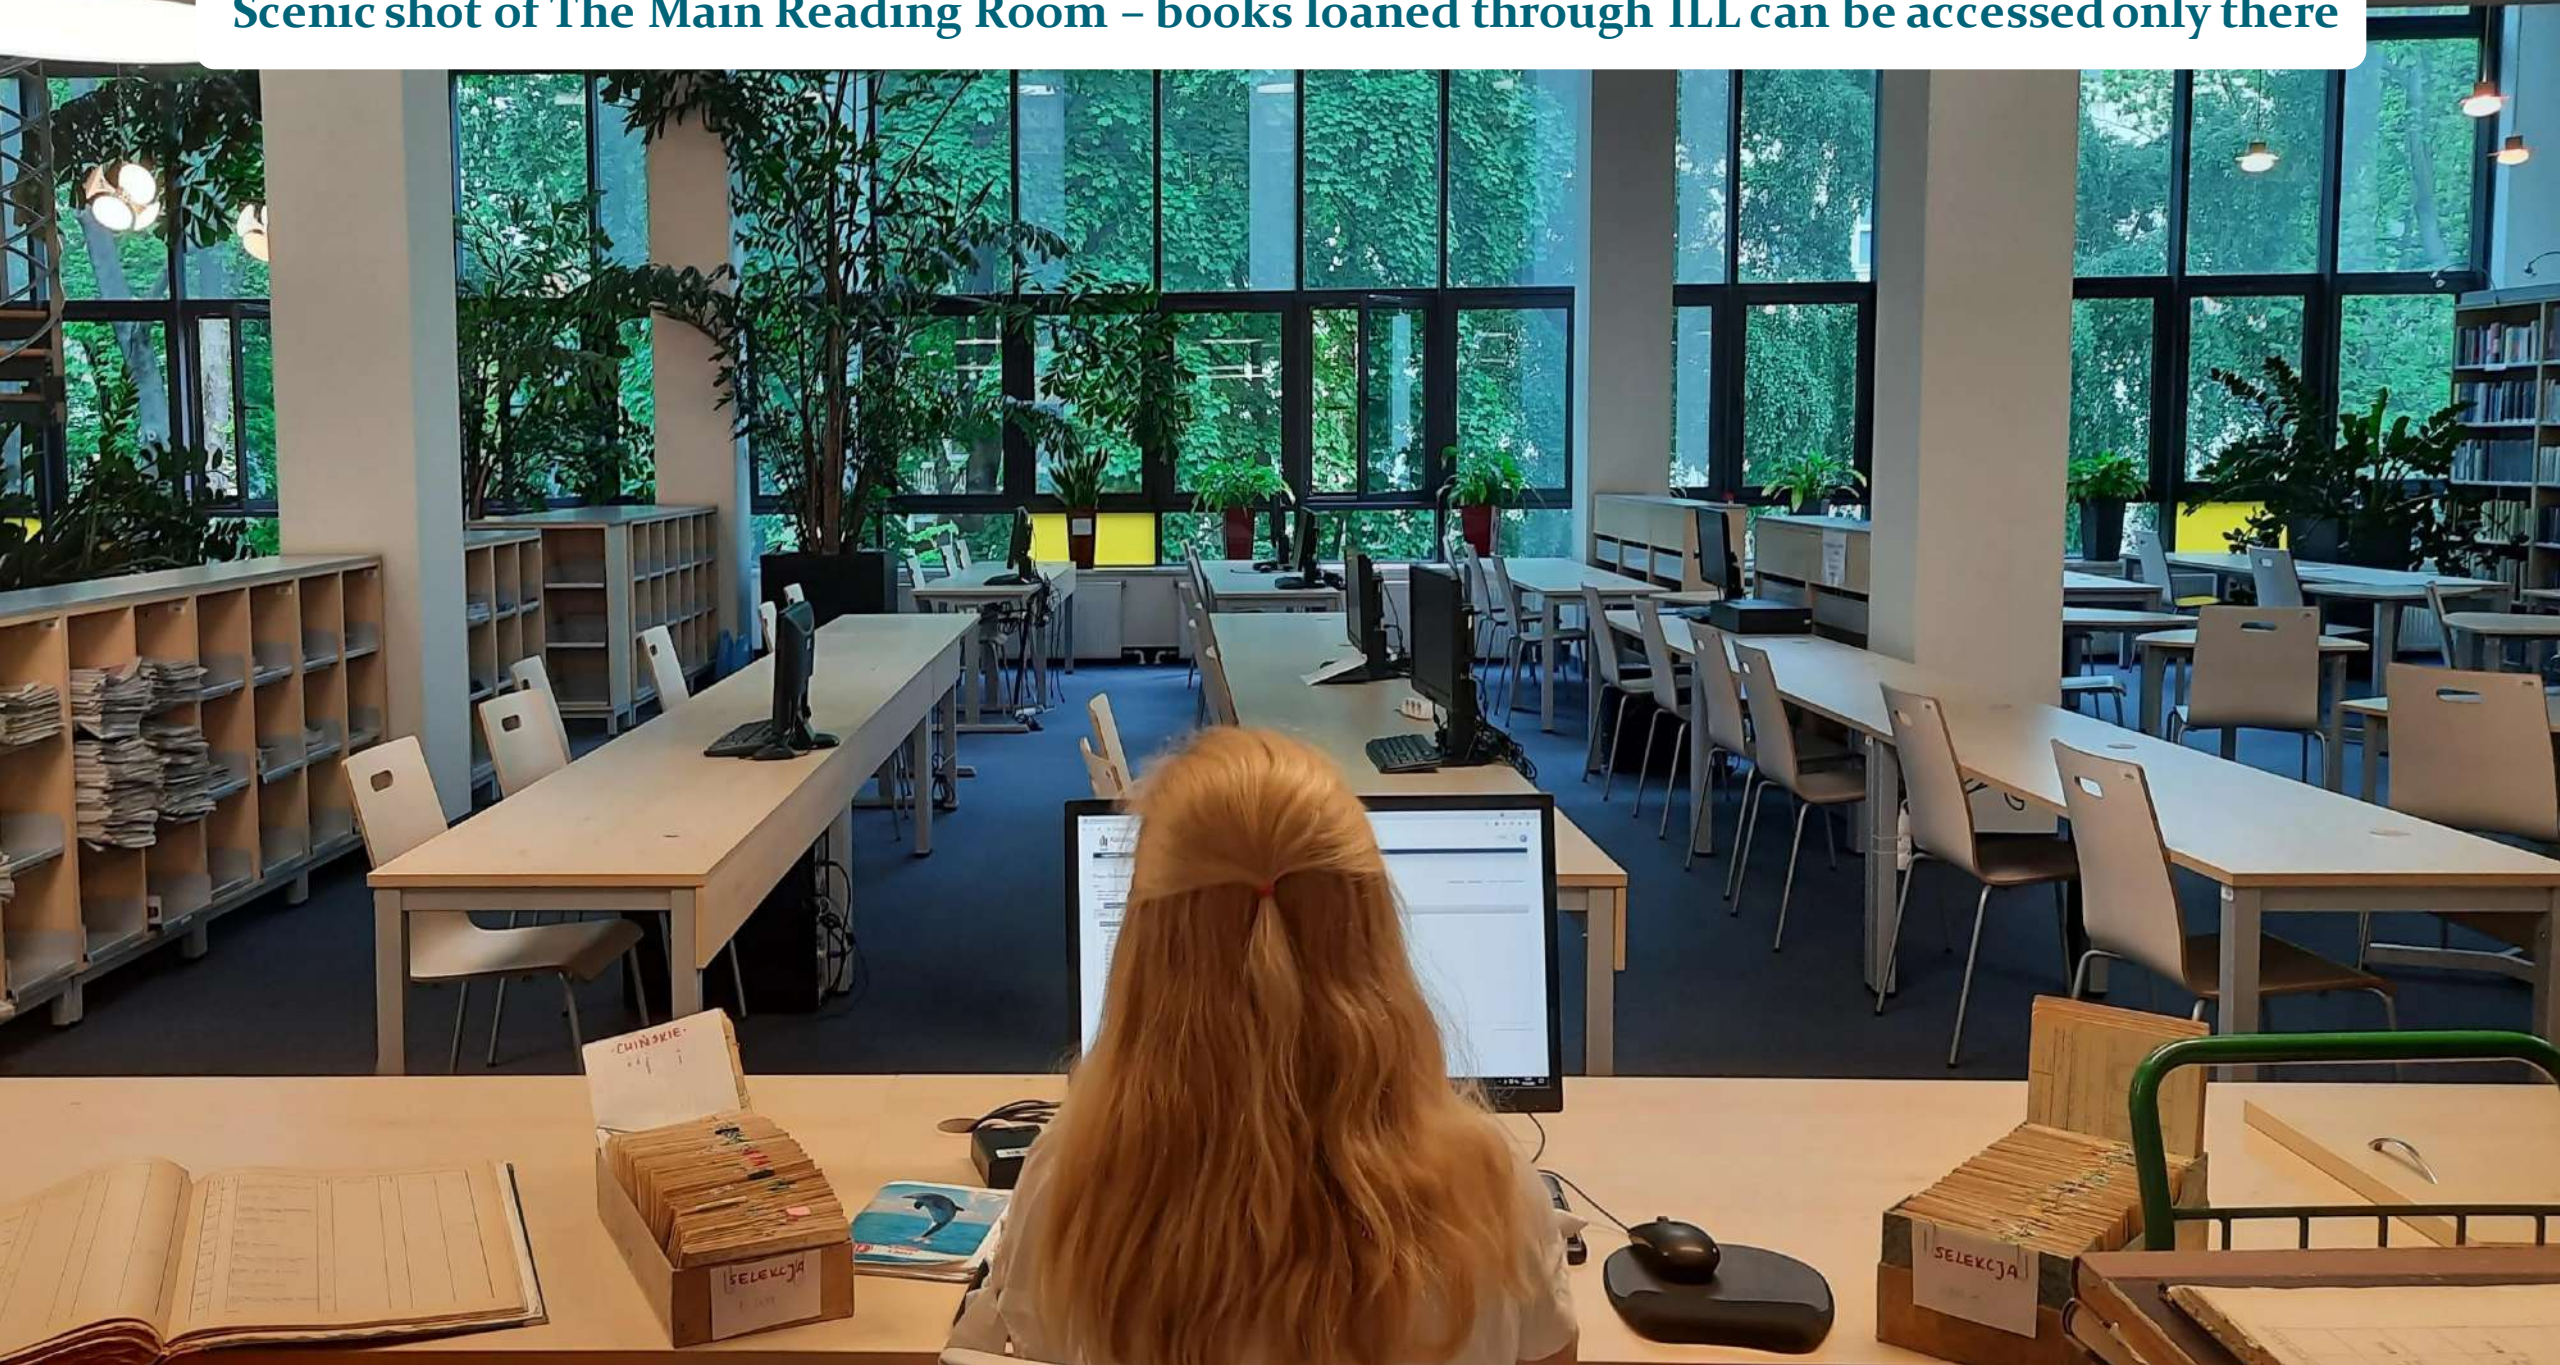

Various events held in the Library help with visibility – both online and on the campus. Information can be found at the website, social media, newsletters etc.

Social Media Managers strongly believe that communication and coworking with PR teams of the University and faculties is the key to success.
